

Holland Free Public Library

129 Spring Mills Road
Milford, NJ 08848

Dear Friends,

Did you know that the Holland Free Public Library is one of only 45 association libraries in the State of New Jersey? An association library merges the best characteristics of both a private, non-profit organization and a publicly supported shared services arrangement.

The property taxes you pay to the Hunterdon County Library allows them to continually update their collection with the latest materials. Through our association, all residents have free access to thousands of books, DVDs, audiobooks, CDs, magazines, and digital books (i.e. Kindle).

However, the Hunterdon County library doesn't fund our building or any of our operating expenses. If it wasn't for our association, the residents of Holland Township would need to go to Clinton or Flemington to check out any materials.

Holland Township is our largest financial donor, providing us with a building, maintenance, heating/AC, electric, snow removal, as well as an annual financial donation. Without the support of the township, the library could not operate.

Through the generous support of the township, we can keep the doors open. Our ability to keep or increase our hours of operation, community programs, and other library enhancements is a function of how much money we raise through this annual appeal as well as our two fundraisers - the community day book sale and February wine tasting.

We appreciate your support in the past and we are asking you to consider renewing your membership or becoming a new member today. Your tax-deductible donation will help keep our community library serving you.
